Overview of Project

- CREATIVE AGORA promotes the European dimension in non-formal, participatory arts education for adults from Europe's disadvantaged and diverse communities.
- CREATIVE AGORA focuses upon the unique, intrinsic ability of community and participatory arts and creative expression to engage adults in learning who are alienated or excluded by traditional adult education offers, through supporting professional development of 'artists as educators' as being critical to fostering educational and social inclusion for all.
- CREATIVE AGORA updates this democratic and participative concept at the root of European culture for a digital age, re-affirming positive educational values of civic participation and inclusion as a restorative actions post-pandemic.

- CREATIVE AGORA aims to design and transfer learning and practice between the fields of community education, the arts and technology. Its objectives include the creation of innovative, new learning materials for 'artists as educators', particularly sessional and freelance tutors working in formal and non-formal adult education settings.
- CREATIVE AGORA's seven partner organisations from Sweden, Spain, Greece, Hungary, Poland, France and Croatia seek to develop a European learning 'community of practice' that fosters transfer and exchange of best practice between artist educators at a transnational level.

RESULT 1

Participatory Arts Education: Technical Framework proposes solutions for creation of a digital environment/communication tools to underpin an effective community of practice for transnational exchange/transfer of learning by adult learners in community and cultural settings outside formal education.

This result includes three elements:

- establishing Peer Review and Development Groups in each country - the Community of Practice
- researching and establishing effective digital communication tools, co-operation processes and methodologies
- establishing a competence framework scoping the role of the target group of artist educators

RESULT 3

Digital Learning Suite for Artist Educators creates a suite of flexible learning modules developing blended learning content in the identified areas that directly address the identified competence needs of the target group of artist educators.

It comprises three modules, mapped against the competence framework established in the first result (Technical Framework) and integrated within the second result (OER):

- Internationalising participatory arts education.
- Health and wellbeing for participatory arts educators.
- Maximising social impact of participatory arts education.
